My niece found this seal while cleaning out her room. It was a teacher, and it looks like a tiger, but the face is gone. It appears it was a rectangle, but has worn off. What is the name of this seal? A: At a glance it looks like a tiger or a lion. A tiger is supposed to have four claws on each foot, so if the beast in your picture has four, we can call it a tiger. It's a bit hard to tell from the picture, but it looks like this beast may have four claws on its left paw. (The picture isn't clear enough for me to tell about the right paw.) The seal could also be called a dragon seal, as it looks like a dragon with its wings extended. Another possibility is a leopard seal, but I don't think that's likely. The most likely possibility is a tiger seal. There's an official list of seals in the UK (but if you can't find it, they're documented on Wikipedia (A: It may be a Roman stamp. The picture here seems to match the one you have (with the same face). Hey guys, Last week I went through and gave myself the first round of reviews of minorities and women in the analyst program. I also filled in some forms for the program before I left for vacation. The feedback I am getting
